ANZ National Medical Team Roles and Responsibilities

A structured overview for coordinating medical seva, administration, community support, and mandir-based medical projects.

1. Purpose

The purpose of the National Medical Team is to provide organised guidance, support, and coordination for medical-related seva across the Pacific region. The team helps ensure that medical members are connected, records are maintained, regular discussions take place, community needs are understood, and special medical projects in mandirs are planned and delivered responsibly.

2. Team Structure

The National Medical Team will consist of four key role leads, each responsible for a specific area of work while collaborating as one coordinated team.

3. Role 1: Medical Admin Lead

Role purpose: To manage the administrative foundation of the National Medical Team and ensure that all medical member information is accurate, organised, and easy to access when needed.

- Maintain the national database of medical members, including names, locations, professions, contact details, qualifications, and availability.
- Keep records up to date by regularly following up with centres and members yearly.
- Prepare and store meeting notes, action items, reports, and key documents.
- Ensure information is handled respectfully and shared only with approved team members when required.
- Arrange for monthly meeting with all National Medical Team leads to discuss progress on activities, give updates and tackle issues that they may be facing.
- Arrange for quarterly meetings with local medical leads to give updates on national projects, current projects, database updates, upcoming activities, and action items.
- Create medical brochure, letters of support templates to be used in various centres.
- Keep medical records for local Santo doing vicharan in ANZ region.

4. Role 2: Medical Satsang Lead

Role purpose: To ensure the National Medical Team meets regularly, discusses relevant topics, follows up on action items, and keeps momentum across all medical seva activities.

- Schedule regular bi-monthly national medical team goshthi.
- Organise National Medical Conference and Local Medical Conferences bi-yearly.

5. Role 3: Medical Volunteer Service Lead

Role purpose: To identify how current medical members can support the community in practical, appropriate, and coordinated ways.

- Understand community health-related needs through discussions with centres and local teams.
- Identify medical members who may be able to support education, awareness, basic guidance, or community initiatives.
- Connect suitable medical members with approved community support opportunities.
- Ensure all community support activities are planned responsibly and within appropriate medical, ethical, and organisational boundaries.
- Organise interstate and international volunteer support medical projects. Help arrange transportation, accommodation, food, contact information, etc.
- Help arrange medical staff support in national conventions, outings, etc. with working with the local medical leads.

6. Role 4: Medical Special Projects Lead

Role purpose: To plan and coordinate special projects in mandirs that relate to the medical field and support the broader spiritual and community environment.

- Identify potential medical-related projects that can be carried out in mandirs or at major events.
- Develop project plans, including objectives, required volunteers, timelines, resources, and approval steps.
- Coordinate with local medical leads, planning teams, and other relevant departments.
- Support projects such as first aid planning, health awareness seminar, blood donation camps, etc.
- Review completed projects and capture learnings for future improvement.
- Create documents for local medical lead to implement health and safety standards at the local level.
- Make a plan for major festivals/projects at mandirs on how to tackle emergency situations by creating a local team for medical support.

7. Shared Responsibilities of All Team Members

- Work together respectfully as one national team.
- Keep communication clear, timely, and professional.
- Follow organisational guidance and seek approvals where required.
- Maintain confidentiality of member and community information.
- Update the team regularly on progress, challenges, and completed actions.
- Support local centres and regions when medical-related guidance or coordination is needed.
