ANZ Medical Service Lead

Roles & Responsibilities

1. Purpose

This guideline defines what each local centre Medical Services Lead, Youth Lead and Mahila Lead roles and responsibilities encompass.

It applies to the Local Lead of Medical Services at every centre. Each Lead works in cooperation with the Mandir Coordinator, Satsang Admin, karyakars and the wider medical services team, and follows the guidance of the national team.

2.Role Overview

The Local Lead is the centre's point person for health-related seva: building a network of medical professionals, preparing the community for emergencies, and making sure care is on hand at every gathering.

The Lead is encouraged to delegate tasks to a small team of volunteers, while remaining accountable for each area.

3.Database of Medical Professionals

The Lead keeps one current list of every medical professional in the centre, so the right person can be reached quickly for seva, advice or an emergency.

- Record each person's name, profession and specialty, workplace, contact details. According to the template given by the national team.
- Include doctors, dentists, nurses, paramedics, pharmacists, physiotherapists, mental health professionals and students in training.
- Ask for each person's consent before listing them.
- Review the list at least twice a year and update it when new families or professionals join the centre.
- Do not share the list with anyone.
- Send an updated copy to the national team so professionals can be connected across centres.

4. Sampark with Medical Professionals

The Lead and local medical team builds lasting, respectful relationships with medical professionals beyond satsang, so the centre has trusted contacts to draw on and share the values of BAPS.

- Make contact with local GPs, hospital staff, clinics, pharmacies, ambulance services and health organisations in the area.
- Keep sampark regular, for example a phone call, visit or message every few months, and note when it last happened.
- Invite outside professionals to health seminars, blood donation camps, Diwali and centre events as speakers, guests or partners.
- Keep a simple contact list with each person's name, role, organisation and the last date of sampark.

5.Training in First Aid

The Lead makes sure enough karyakars, youth and volunteers in the centre hold current First Aid skills.

- Run or arrange First Aid and CPR training at least once a year, using a certified provider or a qualified medical professional from the centre.
- Prioritise volunteers who serve at events, sabhas and children's and youth activities.
- Keep a register of who is trained, the date of training and when the certificate expires, and arrange refresher courses before it lapses.
- Teach practical skills: CPR and defibrillator use, choking, bleeding, burns, fainting, allergic reactions and when to call emergency services.
- Keep first aid kits and, where possible, a defibrillator at the centre. Check the kits every quarter and replace used or expired items.
- Make sure volunteers understand the limits of first aid: they stabilise the person and call emergency services early, and do not diagnose or treat beyond their training.

6. National Projects

The Lead organises projects provided by national team to help gather the community and wider public for practical, trustworthy health guidance other initiatives.

- Ensure to contact other medical professionals to participate in the events.
- Pre-plan the event while working with other departments at mandir with enough time for proper planning and execution.

- Involve the local medical team members for smooth functioning for all national events.
- Follow the guidelines and if there are any changes needed consult national team before making any changes to the program.

7. First Aid and Emergency Response team for Utsav

The Lead forms and briefs a first aid and emergency response team for every utsav, so large gatherings always have trained help close at hand.

- Plan early. At least four to six weeks before the event, review expected attendance, the venue layout, the programme and any health risks, such as heat, crowds, food or children.
- Build a team with a named team leader and at least one qualified medical professional on site, supported by trained First Aid volunteers from the training register.
- Set up a clearly signed first aid post that is easy to reach, with kits, water, seating, and a defibrillator where available.
- Agree an emergency plan: who calls emergency services, who meets the ambulance, how the venue address and entrances are described, and how the family of an affected person is supported.
- Share team members' names and mobile numbers with the event coordinators and brief all team members before the event begins.
- Keep a simple incident log of any cases attended to and hold a short debrief afterwards to record what worked and what to improve.

8.Seva in Ravi Sabha

The Lead makes sure someone is available to offer first aid and health support at every weekly Ravi Sabha.

- Draw up a roster of trained volunteers and medical professionals, so that at least one is present at each sabha.
- Keep a first aid kit in a known location and tell the karyakars and sevaks who to approach in case of need.
- Respond calmly and discreetly to any health concern, and call emergency services without delay when a situation is serious.
- Keep a record of any incidents and let the Mandir Coordinator know about anything significant.

9.Seva at National Events

When the national medical services team asks for support, the Lead offers seva at national events or helps find another suitable volunteer from the centre.

- Respond promptly to calls for seva, and confirm availability, dates and travel arrangements with the national coordinator.
- Create a list of local team members who are willing to go serve in other centres.
- Bring current professional registration or First Aid certificates, if the event team asks for them.
- Follow the instructions of the events medical team leader and work as part of that team.

10. Local Team Vimarsh

The Lead should organise a local medical teams vimarsh every quarter to review projects, local events, trainings, and update on any current issues.

- Set a fix date every quarter for local meeting and send a message to the team at least one month in advance so all can attend.
- Take meeting notes and archive them with a list of attendees. Share with the group after the meeting so all are aware and actions points can be followed.

11. Annual Calendar, Reporting and Conduct

A simple yearly rhythm helps each Lead keep all responsibilities on track. The timings below are suggestions.

Activity	Suggested frequency	Suggested timing
Update Medical Professionals Database	Twice a year	Start of year and mid-year
Sampark with Medical Professionals	Every 2 to 3 months	Ongoing
First Aid and CPR training	At least once a year	Before the main utsav season
Check First Aid Kits and Defibrillator	Every quarter	Quarterly
National Projects	Every quarter	As advised by national

Activity	Suggested frequency	Suggested timing
		team
Emergency Team for Utsavs	Every event	Planning starts 4 to 6 weeks ahead
Ravi Sabha Seva Roster	Weekly	Roster set monthly
National Events Seva	When requested	As advised by national team
Local Team Vimarsh	Every quarter	Quarterly

12. Reporting and Handover

- Give the Mandir Coordinator a short update each quarter covering activities held, volunteers trained, incidents and plans.
- Send the national team an annual summary when asked.
- Keep the database, training register, contact list and event plans in one shared, secure place, so a new Lead can take over smoothly.
- When the role changes hands, the outgoing Lead briefs the new Lead in person and passes on all records.

13. Confidentiality and Conduct

- Treat all health information shared by members as private. Share it only when needed to help the person, or when the law requires it.
- In any emergency, call emergency services first, then inform the family and the Mandir Coordinator.